Forges-les-Eaux,

by iron and by water

Recognized for their restorative virtues, the waters of Forges really took off with the cure that the King of France Louis XIII, the Queen Anne of Austria and Cardinal Richelieu came to do so in 1633, transforming our small village in the capital of the kingdom of France.

These miraculous waters were said to have the property to treat anemia and diseases linked to iron deficiencies.

Legend has it that it was thanks to their stay at Forges, which the King and Queen gave birth to to Louis XIV, future Sun King. This is how the site becomes "the city where the sun was born"!

City walk

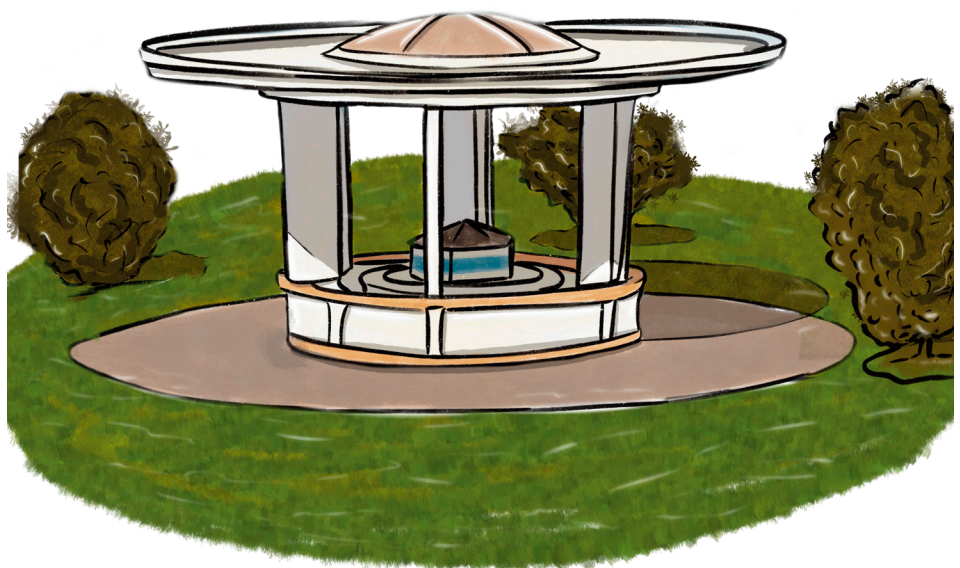

Departing from the Domaine de Forges, explore the town to discover the whole story! You'll finish your walk in city hall park, not far from the tourist office.

Tourist office: a souvenir maker !

Our team is passionate and enthusiastic, creative of intergenerational experiences on Normandy land rich and preserved. We have been engaged since September 2021 in a CSR approach. The Forges-les-Eaux Tourist Office wants to become a "sustainable" destination and wishes to improve its skills in this area and limit our impact on the environment.

resort architecture

From the 17th century, it was about breathing fresh air, eating healthier, taking walks, to recharge your batteries in nature, in calm and serenity and to enjoy the many entertainment offered, far from the heavy atmosphere of the Court of France !

One of our most famous spa guest, Grande Mademoiselle, Duchess of Montpensier, cousin of Louis writes :

Forges is quite gentle but very different from what we usually do.

« We get up at 6 a.m. at the latest. We go to the fountain because for me I don't like not take my water at home. We walk around taking them (...) When we finished drinking (...) we go to the Capuchin garden which is not closed walls because it is the only place where you can walk (...). It's a place where there are all colors, nuns, priests, Huguenot ministers and people from all countries and professions. This diversity is quite entertaining.

(...) We dined at noon with a great appetite (...) In the afternoon, people came to see me. At three o'clock I went to the comedy. (...) At six o'clock we have supper. After dinner we go for a walk at the Capuchins where the litanies are said. Almost everyone goes hear before the walk then, at nine o'clock, everyone retires. »

Life in Forges-les-Eaux

The town of Forges-les-Eaux has a historical town hall. In the 17th century, building was the property of the Levaillant's family, who welcomed King Louis XIII, the Queen of France Anne of Austria and Cardinal Richelieu during their stay in 1633.

Known for its ferruginous waters, the Queen who could not give an heir to the Kingdom, decides to come and stay in Forges-les-Eaux to drink the water. At this time we used to think that ferruginous waters could treat anemia and sterility.

Forges-en-Bray (name at that time) was not the place of a lordship, there was no castle to welcome the royal guests, so they stayed at Levaillant's Family house, who was a master in glassmaker.
